Until now, we will bring an important and significant milestone into Nunavut. With the assistance of the CRC to connect all communities with high-speed internet service for first time in its history...

The CRTC introduced the Broadband Fund in 2019 and has since allocated more than $300 million to improve high-speed internet, mobile or broadband services for rural remote communities across country.

The commission also provides 8 million dollars in funding for a second satellite Internet project located at Northern Ontario. Northwestel has also received $53 million in extra funding for its project to provide services on Internet with Atlan. The company has recently become a community service telephone provider.

The CRTC says it'll make more funding announcements in 2024.
